To Correspondents.

TO a correspondent we answer, respecting our Obituary, some arrangements shall take place, under that head, which may meet his approbation.

We do admit that our magazine is an indispensable family companion, but cannot admit "Lines on Domestic Discord."

Marcus should not be impatient; we have many valuable articles which have precedence to his, and which have been in our possession some time. We would willingly give place to the favors of our friends without delay, but the nature of our work will not admit of a more speedy insertion.
